Campus Protests Follow U.S. Invasion Of Cambodia

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Students opposed to President Nixon's decision to send American troops into Cambodia have staged protests across the nation. The President was burned in effigy at one campus, ROTC offices were firebombed at two colleges, and students clashed with police elsewhere.

Some 200 rock-throwing students fought with police at the University of Maryland in College Park, Md., early today. Earlier, 300 National Guard troops were summoned to back up police when the students sacked the Air Force ROTC armory buildings, burning ROTC uniforms and papers. The university has 44,876 students.

An effigy of Nixon was burned at Union College in Schenectady, N.Y. Later, Union students blocked downtown traffic and marched to a local General Motors Co. plant to denounce it as part of the "war machine."

Firebombs were thrown through a cellar window of the ROTC headquarters at Hobart College in Geneva, N.Y., and a firebomb was hurled through the window of the ROTC armory at Oregon State University.

At Stanford University, police used a helicopter with a bright light in an attempt to break up a campus rock-throwing disturbance involving about 100 to 300 demonstrators after an anti-ROTC "party."

Later, three shots were fired at the Los Altos, Calif., home of Col. Staley Ramey, Army ROTC commander at Stanford, a university spokesman said. The shots struck the house but no injuries were reported.

About 500 Kent State University students broke windows, set fires and damaged cars during a mile-long march early today from the center of Kent, Ohio, to the 19,000-student campus. They shouted, "Down with Nixon." Earlier, they had burned a copy of the U.S. Constitution saying, "President Nixon has murdered the Constitution."

In Pasadena, Calif., some 250 demonstrators at California Institute of Technology carried signs reading: "The king is a fink," "Nixon kills," and "Stay out of Cambodia."

"Hell no, we won't go," 30 students shouted as they marched to the ROTC headquarters at the University of Tulsa in Tulsa, Okla. Earlier, 200 students heard Dr. Thomas F. Staley, dean of the university graduate school, tell an antiwar rally, "The President has committed us to war and to annihilation. I sense a feeling of despair."

In Washington, the student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam announced mass demonstrations were being planned for several cities.

Locusts Return To Central, Southern Ohio

17-Year-Cycle Starts Again In 27 Counties

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—After 17 years, they're back.

First sightings of the cicadas, or locust as the insect is mistakenly known, were reported in Franklin County late Friday. The "rebirth" of the cicadas from its protective nymphal skin is expected to continue through the month of May and will affect a 20-county area in central and western Ohio.

The Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center located here at Ohio State University indicated the insects live from May until July generally, but that during that time the cicadas are capable of considerable damage to fruit and certain shade trees.

Richard L. Miller, an entomologist at OSU, explained the damage is done only during the egg laying process. Miller said the female slits twigs and small branches of trees, when she deposits nearly 600 eggs in the protective opening. In about six weeks the eggs hatch, Miller said, and fall to the ground where the young nymphs burrow into the soil and attach themselves to roots for a 17-year period of growth.

Miller added the cicadas, which move in swarms, range only about one-half of one mile from the location of their emergence.

Miller said the only protection for young trees and shrubs, apart from the use of certain chemicals, was netting, preferably nylon, that should be put in place as soon as the adults begin to appear.

The Ohio counties likely to be affected are: Mercer; Darke; Preble; Butler; Hamilton; Allen; Auglaize; Shelby; Miami; Montgomery; Hancock; Hardin; Logan; Champaign; Clark; Greene; Seneca; Wyandot; Marion; Union; Madison; Fayette; Crawford; Morrow; Delaware; Franklin; and Pickaway.

Fair Weather Favors Wide Areas Of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Fair and dry weather favored wide areas of the nation today, but cold air settling into the midcontinent dropped temperatures into the 20s and 30s in the northern Plains and Midwest.

Southerly winds fanning the eastern seaboard held overnight temperatures here in the 50s and 60s.

Thundershowers washed scattered areas along a cool front extending from the lower Great Lakes to the lower Mississippi Valley. More than an inch of rain soaked sections of Louisiana and Mississippi.

Snow swirled over parts of the northern Plains and the upper Great Lakes. The mercury dipped into the low 30s across much of Iowa.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 26 at Sidney, Neb., to 77 at Miami, Fla.

Truck Strike Shows Signs Of Breaking

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
About 1,000 members of Akron Teamsters Local 24 voted shortly before midnight Friday to end their wildcat strike after hearing Democratic gubernatorial candidate Robert E. Sweeney's back-to-work proposal.

It was the first break in the dissident Teamsters strike that has paralyzed northern Ohio since April 1.

Dissident teamsters in Cleveland earlier took no action on Sweeney's proposal but said they would attend a meeting of Teamsters Local 407 in Cleveland today to hear from union officials the terms of a proposed national contract.

After the Akron action, Sweeney, dissident-appointed mediator, said he was hopeful that Cleveland Teamsters also would accept the proposal. He said he would meet with them again this morning.

Earlier Friday night, Gov. James A. Rhodes announced he had called out 400 more National Guard troops to bolster the 3,700 called out earlier this week to protect free movement of trucks in northern and southwest Ohio.

In other action Friday in connection with the wildcat strike, now in its second month, Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge Herbert R. Whiting banned all violence and interference with truck movements by striking members of Teamsters Local 407.

Rhodes said 400 members of the 437th Military Police Battalion in the Youngstown-Warren area will move into Cleveland Monday morning to aid police in escorting trucks making deliveries in the city.

"The addition of this new guard unit will help get through needed deliveries of food, medicines and drugs in the Cleveland area," the governor said. "It is absolutely essential to the well being of all Clevelanders that trucks are permitted to make their deliveries."

Elks Nominated For Top Offices

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—M. B. Letzelter of Seubenville was to be installed as president of the Ohio Elks Association today during the organization's annual convention.

Letzelter and other officers were nominated without opposition Friday, tantamount to election. The others are Earl E. Sloan, Elyria, first vice president; Irving W. Davies, Lakewood, second vice president; Floyd Shambaugh, North Canton, third vice president; Frank O'Connell, Marietta, secretary, and Sam Fitzsimmons, Van Wert, trustee.

Nasser Blasts U.S., Threatens Israelis

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt has blamed the United States for Israel's action over the past 20 years, claimed that the purpose of Soviet aid to Egypt is to repel Israeli attacks, and repeated his threat to bomb Israeli civilian population centers.

In an emotional May Day speech, Nasser said the United States stands to sacrifice its influence in the Middle East for decades or even centuries unless it persuades Israel to relinquish Arab territory it has held since the 1967 war.

But the Egyptian president told a working class crowd in a Cairo suburb that the United States is not likely to exert such an influence on Israel because, he declared, President Nixon's policy is to insure Israeli superiority and "impede any move by Egypt" to regain its occupied territory.

Nasser denied U.S. and Israeli reports that Soviet pilots are flying operational missions inside Egypt, calling such claims "Israeli propaganda."

"There is nothing new in what the Soviet Union is doing for us," he said. "The Egyptian people are sincerely grateful for the aid they are receiving from

Allied Spearheads Find Red Camps

SAIGON (AP) — Powerful U.S. and South Vietnamese forces began overrunning base camps in Cambodia today, seizing huge stores of rice and thrusting to within striking distance of a town held by the enemy.

One bunker complex was hidden under farm land and contained scores of rooms with large rice stores. At least three other battalion-sized base camps freshly evacuated were uncovered. Troops were still searching for caverns seven stories deep and two underground hospitals containing 1,200 beds.

Despite the U.S. Command's estimate of 7,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in the base area, there appeared to be little evidence of an enemy troop buildup. The area, known as the Fishhook because of its shape, is about 70 miles northwest of Saigon.

Official sources said there have been enemy movements to the west and north deeper into Cambodia, but there are still a substantial number of enemy troops in the zone.

"They are shifting away from the border," said one source. "I think they truly felt it was a sanctuary and they were not prepared to stand there and fight."

The sources said that even if they encounter no major battle, the offensive will at least temporarily destroy the value of the base areas and disrupt enemy supply lines perhaps until next October. They said the enemy would be unable to rebuild the base areas during the upcoming rainy season which doesn't end until next October.

By midafternoon, forward American elements had pushed onto highway 7 just east of the town of Mimot, about eight miles inside Cambodia. The plantation town was captured by North Vietnamese troops three days ago.

Remnants of a Cambodian battalion defending the town fled southward and crossed to the South Vietnamese town of Katum.

Black Panther Rally Mostly Peaceful; Report 1 Blast

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Demonstrators rallied for a second day today in support of jailed Black Panthers, following a generally peaceful May Day program marred by sporadic late-evening clashes and an explosion.

A crowd estimated by police at 12,000 to 15,000 gathered Friday on the New Haven Green — near Yale University and opposite the courthouse, site of pretrial hearings for eight Black Panthers, including National Chairman Bobby Seale, in a murder case.

They heard speeches by some of the Chicago 7 and Panther leaders, who contended the Panthers could not get a fair trial and should be released.

Some 2,400 National Guardsmen were deployed several blocks from the rally to help direct traffic and be on hand in case of disorders, but there were no incidents as the gathering broke up. All but about 400 Guardsmen then were pulled from the streets.

In mid-evening, however, soon after police and city officials had praised the peaceful character of the demonstration, protesters massed at the courthouse and clashed with police who tried to disperse them.

About 200 city policemen fired irritant gases at the demonstrators. An additional 400 Guardsmen were ordered in, a Guard spokesman said, and blocked off streets and fired tear gas.

Demonstration marshals and Yale Chaplain William Sloane Coffin urged the protesters to retreat. They said violence would not help the Panthers or the black community of New Haven.

Later in the evening an explosion damaged Ingall's Rink, a sports arena on the Yale campus, knocking out glass. About 50 persons were inside but there were no serious injuries. Police would not comment on the cause of the blast.

The great mass of demonstrators during the day had been peaceful. They listened to rock and folk music on the Green before the main rally, chanting and waving flags. Speakers urged support for the Panthers and a nonviolent demonstration. Another Panther, Alex Rackley, urged support for the Panthers and a nonviolent demonstration.

Chillicothe Workers Return To Jobs

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—City employees were back on jobs today, catching up on garbage collections and other work that fell behind during an eight-day strike.

The strike ended Friday when negotiators agreed on a new two-year contract providing a 19-cent hourly increase over the life of the pact.

Some of the U.S. helicopters that lifted in American combat troops Friday turned around to lift out hundreds of Cambodian refugees—men, women and children.

The U.S. Command said two American soldiers have been killed so far in the operation. They were the first Americans killed in ground fighting in Cambodia.

LBJ Supports Nixon Decision

Says President Knows The Facts

CHICAGO (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, cautioning that Cambodia and Laos are "no more than 30 hours away" from the United States, has pledged support for President Nixon as he charts American policy.

Speaking at a Democratic party dinner Friday night, the former president stopped short of endorsing a specific course in Southeast Asia.

Johnson said he had listened Thursday night to Nixon's televised talk explaining his decision to send U.S. troops to attack Communist positions in Cambodia.

"And I know," he added, "I know from personal experience, that his problem and our problem tonight is getting Hanoi to listen."

Cautioning against counsels of dissent, he said, "It hurts our country and every citizen in our country when it is reeking with dissension and there is no one person in charge speaking with one voice."

"I heard our President's voice last night," he said. "I think the country is getting to know it. I hope our President's voice will not be drowned out by other voices that do not know all the facts and do not have the responsibility of making these decisions."

Johnson said that as the President maps his policy he should have support of "all people who love freedom."

"He has mine," Johnson added. "God knows, presidents need it."

The speech was Johnson's first before a political audience since he left office. It was his first visit to Chicago since March 1968, two days after he announced he would not seek a second full term.

No Mention Of Crashes In True Bills

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Seven men have been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges that they conspired to pass defective parts for the controversial F111 fighter plane.

There was no mention in the 20-count indictment of an F111 crash which killed two crewmen last Dec. 22 near Las Vegas, grounding more than 225 of the planes delivered to the Air Force.

The indictment, brought by a grand jury at Little Rock, Ark., and opened Friday, named three employees of General Dynamics Corp. here, the prime contractor for the swing-wing plane, and four officials of two subcontracting firms.

Fifteen F111s have crashed, among them three in Vietnam. A wing breaking off because of a steel flaw caused the Nevada crash, the Pentagon said. Assorted technical problems and pilot error were blamed for other crashes.

It was unlikely that the parts figuring in the indictment could have been responsible for a crash, a General Dynamics spokesman said.

Four of the defective parts were for a longeron, which goes into fuselage framing, and two for a cap-wing pivot, the indictment stated.

It said the defendants placed new serial numbers on parts previously rejected by the General Dynamics material review board and sent those parts back through inspection to be bought by the company as new. Many of the parts were welded to hide defects, the grand jury said.

The indictment accused the four subcontractor officials of giving cash, cars, building supplies and entertainment to General Dynamics employees "for the purpose of influencing and inducing favorable determinations by the employees as to the acceptance or rejection of parts containing unauthorized weld repairs as well as other discrepancies."

One of the seven men, Neuman L. Johnson, identified as chief of outside production for General Dynamics, surrendered Friday to authorities in Fort Worth. He was freed under $2,500 bond. Other General Dynamics employees named in the indictment are James L. Townley, a quality assurance superintendent; and Joseph R. Spear, resident inspector at subcontracting plants producing F111 components.

Also indicted were Harry C. (Continued on Page 12)

Yarborough In Trouble In Texas?

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Ralph Yarborough used the word "apathy" to describe the mood of voters as he campaigned for today's Democratic primary, and that could mean trouble for him.

Lloyd Bentsen, the challenger in the primary, has criticized Yarborough as an ultraliberal and called him "the champion big spender."

Most political observers in Texas say that conservatives always vote; thus a small vote would favor Bentsen.

In the Republican primary to select a Senate candidate for the Nov. 3 election, U.S. Rep. George Bush, 45, is opposed by Robert Morris, 54, president of the University of Plano, which is in a Dallas suburb.

Both parties nominate candidates today from the courthouse to state levels, but most attention was focused on the race between Yarborough, 66, and Bentsen, 49.

Bentsen, now an insurance company executive in Houston, was seeking a strong swing to him by the 17 per cent of Texans who are Mexican-American. May of them lived in the congressional district south of San Antonio that Bentsen represented for 10 years.

Home Agent Tips

By Marjorie Wolford

Home Economics Agent

It's been a long hard winter. The family chariot or mom's chauffeuring car shows the signs. It's just plain dirty both inside and out. Now that days are getting warm enough to use a bucket or suds outdoors, it's a good time to clean up the car before spring fun really begins.

Start with the inside. First, pick up any large pieces of paper, parts of toys, odds and ends. If you have a plug-in the lighter type vacuum use that to pick up the grit and grime of winter. Or, use a vacuum plugged into an outdoor outlet if possible, or passed through a window of the house. If no power for vacuuming is available, use a whisk broom to sweep upholstery and debris from the floor into piles. Dampened paper towels will pick up a heap of dirt.

Fill a small pail with warm, sudsy water. Using a sudswrung sponge, wipe the dashboard, inner door surfaces, plastic upholstery, foot pedals, just about everything. Squeeze the sponge in the suds as often as necessary. Several fresh pails of suds may be needed to do a really good job on this initial after-the-winter cleaning. Then rinse parts thoroughly and dry. This might also be an opportune time to apply a coat of protective wax where necessary. Of course, children can be good helpers. But they might be a little slipshod in this inside detail work, in which case it's easier on everyone's disposition to do the job while they are in school.

Rains Force Millipedes Inside

One of spring's less pleasant experiences can be the invasion of homes by millipedes. Heavy rains sometimes raise the water level in soil and force these creatures to seek shelter.

Millipedes don't feed on structures or home furnishings. They don't bite or sting humans but, if crushed they may stain fabrics. They can also emit unpleasant odors, points out Extension Entomologist William F. Lyon at The Ohio State University.

Since millipedes breed outdoors in decaying vegetable matter, keep compost piles or other organic matter accumulations as far away from the house as possible. Damp, wet conditions in basements and crawl spaces should be eliminated, because such moist areas provide an environment favorable for millipedes.

Initial control treatments should be made outdoors to eliminate the source of these pests, says the entomologist. One-half per cent diazinon, or two per cent carbaryl (sevin) in a spray emulsion or suspension give good control when applied liberally. Best control occurs when the insecticide is applied in a swath five to ten feet wide on the ground around the entire house foundation. Water-based sprays of the chlorinated hydrocarbons sometimes work but have been known to fail, Lyon advises.

Lawn treatments at the rate of 20 gallons of spray per 1,000 square feet of area may be necessary. Dusts or granules of five per cent carbaryl, or 10 per cent diazinon may be used with excellent results.

Indoors, DDVP (Vapona) sprays will give a fast knockdown of these creatures. Two per cent chlordane, 1/2 per cent dieldrin, 1 per cent diazinon, or one per cent Baygon sprays applied on baseboards and other entry points near grade level will kill millipedes.

Finally, lather the outside of the car paying special attention to the low areas that have caught the brunt of rock salt and sand-laden snow flung up while driving. But don't just wash the parts of the car that show. Use a garden hose to flush under the bumpers and the underside of the car. These are the areas where dirt and salt collect and cause rusting. Then hose rinse the entire car, dry and apply a coating of car wax.

It's a hard job, but worth it. Not only does the car look better, but cleaning away abrasive gritty particles makes exterior surfaces last longer.

The home gardener who heads for the tool shed at the first hint of spring is often faced with a formidable indoor clean up task before he can begin his outdoor beautifying campaign. Mud-encrusted tools, a helter-skelter of garden gloves, twisted hoses, flower pots, pails, baskets, and sprays may have been hiding there all winter.

The first thing to do is to sort out all the equipment. Garden gloves will undoubtedly need a laundering; hoses, flower pots, and pails a thorough washing. Sprays and other chemical products should be clearly labeled and placed on a high shelf, out of the reach of children.

Collect all the muddy tools and put them into a large pail filled with hot sudsy water; then let them soak. A few stubborn pieces may require additional scrubbing with a wire brush. Then rinse and let the tools dry thoroughly. Follow up with a light coating of oil to avoid rusting.

If there are small children in the family, sharp-edged garden tools could be hazardous. Protect your child's safety by making guards for such tools. Cut off a piece of old garden hose, a little longer than the edge of the tool, and split it lengthwise. It will stay in place over the sharp edge of the hose's natural spring. Another safety measure is to face the edges of the tools towards the wall rather than out into the room.

Ohio Tested Bull Sale

Averages $723 A Head

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

More than 500 cattlemen packed an Ohio Expositions Center sale arena April 17 and watched 34 beef bulls sell for an average of $723.

Buyers came from five states and from throughout Ohio for this, the first Ohio Tested Bull Sale ever held. On April 22, the innovative project was judged a success by the test and sale committees and plans were made for a more extensive program and sale about the same time next year.

Top-selling bull was HVR Bar 016-910, consigned by Hidden Valley Ranch, Bidwell. This big, rugged Charolais bull showed an overall average daily gain of 3.26 pounds and a 2.95 daily gain while on test. Selling for $1,500, this son of FWT Bar 016 went to Ash Brothers, Springfield.

Lot 21 Charolais, GH 411, also sired by FWT Bar 016, was the top-gaining bull in the program. He gained an average of 4.16 pounds per day during the 105-day testing period and gained 3.00 pounds per day of age. Consigned by the G & H Research Farm, Inc., Circleville, he sold for $950 to Charles McDaniel, Urbana.

FIVE bulls sold for $1,000 or more. The 34 head grossed a total of $24,605, with several lots going to buyers from Michigan, Kentucky, West Virginia, Indiana and Georgia.

Sixty bulls started in the program when they were delivered on December 15 last year to the testing station under the Expositions Center viaduct. At the end of a 14-day conditioning period, each bull was weighed and type score graded.

On December 29 and 30, the bulls were again weighed and placed on a 105-day rate of gain test. The test concluded on April 13 and 14, when each bull was weighed and graded to conclude the test. Two Angus averaged 2.83 pounds gain per day; 27 Charolais gained an average of 2.90 pounds per day; 9 Horned Herefords, 2.83; and 21 Polled Herefords, 2.80.

By housing the bulls side by side, all of them having access to the same self-fed ration and water, environmental variation was minimized. The testing program final report indicated how each bull compared with the others, at both the starting date and the finishing date. By analyzing and comparing each bull's data, the buyer could make his choice.

Each bull was fed the same ration, containing about 14 per cent crude protein. It was not a ration designed for especially high gains.

The purposes of the project, in addition to showing the values of performance testing, were to identify superior bulls and to encourage their use by Ohio cattlemen, both purebred and commercial producers.

SIXTEEN of the bulls which started the program could not meet the minimum requirements for the sale. They needed a 2 pound minimum weight per day of age, a 2.25 minimum average daily gain while on test and a minimum type score of 12. Type scores ranged from 12 (low choice) to 14.7 (low prime).

Ten of the bulls catalogued for the sale did not sell for the minimum bid of $400. They remained the property of the consignor.

The testing was supervised by personnel of the Animal Science Department of The Ohio State University. They, along with breed representatives, have agreed to expand next year's program to a 140-day testing period.

They want to double the number of bulls in the test and through the success of this sale, get some even more outstanding pedigreed bulls.

Auctioneer Merlin Woodruff summed up the importance of the entire sale even before it began. "If the beefmen of Ohio can work together, they can develop a sire certification program through performance testing. The swine industry has succeeded, so why not the beef industry?"

"This sale is a step forward for the beef cattle industry in Ohio," he declared.

Elimination Of The Lousy Hog

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Some folks would infer from the title that we were out to eliminate the pig, but instead we are out to eliminate the louse on the pig.

For cool weather, lice control can be accomplished by cleaning the pens thoroughly, adding fresh bedding and then treating this bedding with 5 per cent ronnel (Korlan) granules at the rate of one-half pound per 100 square feet. The cost for this area would be approximately 25-35 cents. A caution is that the pigs must be removed from this ronnel-applied bedding at least two weeks before slaughter.

For warm weather, hog sprays that can be used include the following: malathion, methoxychlor and ronnel (Korlan). Ronnel Korlan has a 42-day limitation before slaughter. Never apply more frequently than once every two weeks.

Other sprays with limitations are toxaphene, with 28-day limitation before slaughter and lindane, with a 30 day limitation before slaughter. Do not use on animals less than 3 months old. When using malathion, one quart of 57 per cent emulsion concentrate, or four pounds of 25 per cent malathion wettable powder per 25 gallons of water should be used as a spray. Do not use this material on animals under one month old. With methoxychlor, use one quart of 24 per cent methoxychlor emulsion concentrate in 12½ gallons of water as a spray. Do not treat sows within two weeks of farrowing, or for at least three weeks thereafter.

When it comes to controlling mange, a spray or dip is required to get the job done. Materials recommended are: lindane at the rate of ½ pound of 25 per cent wettable powder per 25 gallons of water. There is a 30-day spray limitation and a 60-day dipping limitation before slaughter.

Small pigs can be treated for mange with pound powdered lime-sulfur in 7½ gallons of water as a dip, or treated with lindane after they are fully weaned. A second treatment is needed 10 days after the first and there are no waiting day limitations when using lime-sulfur.

Don't forget to treat the boards, also. Follow all label precautions for use of all of these recommended materials.

Taft Would Make Sure Guardsmen Get To Vote

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Robert Taft Jr. is concerned that National Guardsmen called up because of the truckers strike and disorders at Ohio State University will not have a chance to vote in next Tuesday's primary election.

"While it is beyond question that the safety of Ohio is the paramount consideration, provisions could be made for these people to vote without jeopardizing that safety," the Republican Congressman said Friday.

Senate hopeful Taft called upon the guard to provide activated troops with sufficient time and transportation to vote.

On another topic, Taft said Friday President Nixon has shown "candor and courage" in his decision to use U.S. ground forces in Cambodia. He said he will support Nixon as long as his objective continues to be early withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam.

Differing sharply on the issue was Howard Metzgenbaum Democratic Senatorial candidate, who said the President's action was "a cataclysmic mistake which dashes all hopes for an early end of the conflict in Southeast Asia."

He said Nixon has "capitulated to the generals in the Pentagon and has chosen to escalate the battle."

In the gubernatorial race, Republican Rep. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens chose Law Day to declare: "Lawlessness is rampant in our society and crime increases faster than our population."

He said on a Springfield television show that citizens and college students who want to pursue an education must be protected from criminal activity.

"I am fed up with the cod-dling of criminals, of excuses for his behavior," he said. "How about the rights of the victims of robberies, assaults and looting?"

State Auditor Roger Cloud another contender for the GOP gubernatorial nomination, said at Willoughby Friday he supported use of highway patrolmen and the National Guard to quell disturbances at Ohio State University.

"When demonstrations inhibit the rights and movement of people, a governor is responsible for enforcing law and order with justice . . ." he said.

The need for mass transportation in Ohio cities was pointed out Friday by Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown, another Republican candidate for governor.

"We must provide for economical, fast transportation of the masses in our larger cities," he said.

Democratic gubernatorial candidate John J. Gilligan said in Cleveland Friday that air and water pollution in Ohio has reached "staggering proportions."

He renewed his challenge to the state to "start enforcing the laws and clean up Ohio's air and water."

Gilligan's chief opponent, Robert Sweeney, claimed Friday some polls show him in the lead for the Democratic nomination.

Sweeney also said he had received a letter from Mrs. Frank J. Lausche, wife of the former U.S. Senator and governor, saying she had voted for him on her absentee ballot.

Teays Valley Bond Issue On Ballot

Bond issues for school construction will be placed on the May 5 ballot for voters in the Teays Valley and Miami Trace School Districts.

Pickaway County voters in the Fayette County Miami Trace District will face a proposed bond issue amounting to $2,488,550 for construction of a new Middle School.

A property tax averaging 3.2 mills over a 20-year period will be required to retire the construction bonds.

Teays Valley bond issue amounting to $2,448,000 is for construction of an Upper Elementary School to house grades 6, 7 and 8 for the total district.

The centralized school would be located on the present high school site as a separate building. Of the total bond issue, $300,000 would be used to add a kitchen-cafeteria and small elementary library to the present Ashville Elementary School.

The bond issue would levy property tax 4.6 mills or 46 cents for each $100 valuation for a period of 20 years, to pay the principal and interest of the bonds.

Only Gaelic College In North America Is Cape Breton Island's St. Ann's

By STEVE LIBBY
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

Every summer, students from all over North America turn up at St. Ann's College, in the highlands of Cape Breton Island Nova Scotia. Situated in an area where people still speak Gaelic as their native tongue, St. Ann's College of Celtic Folk Art and Highland Home Crafts is the only Gaelic college in North America.

So, if your heart is in the Highlands, this is the place to go — a place where a wee bit o' auld Scotland faithfully preserves an unbroken heritage of Scottish traditions.

Cape Breton Island, that huge, 100-mile-long island which is the northwestern segment of Nova Scotia in Canada's Maritime Provinces, is just one stronghold where the ancient Celtic tongue is still a living language.

More than 6,000 descendants of hardy Scottish settlers still speak Gaelic on Cape Breton, and St. Ann's College came into existence to prevent such liting Gaelic greetings as "Ciad Mle Failte" — a hundred thousand welcomes — from falling into disuse.

The principal highway on Cape Breton, Route 19, starts at port Hastings, on Breton's southernmost tip and runs northward to Pleasant Bay, then easterly to Neils Harbor and southward again on the eastern shore to South Haven. There Route 19, better known as the Cabot Trail, connects with Route 5 for Sydney, several miles to the east across St. Andrew's Channel.

Spread on both sides of the Cabot Trail and overlooking the rockbound coast of St. Ann's Bay, the campus is a beautiful one. Its hewn-log buildings nestle among evergreens which rustle with the activities of squirrels and chipmunks. The green carpet of the ground is strewn with wild strawberries.

Wooded walks wind their way through the countryside, reminding many visitors of the Highlands of old Scotland. To further this reminiscence, there — far off in the distance to the west — mountains rise and the crest of Old Smokey is frequently veiled with massive fog banks which roll in from the bay.

On sunny summer days, the brilliant flash of tartans pepper the busy scene. Bonnie wee lassies tuck unruly curls under jaunty tams, as they ready themselves for lessons in the delicate art of bagpiping. Highland dancing, Gaelic singing, and the weaving of Scottish tartans. All classes are held out - of - doors excepting when it rains. All students, who range in age from seven to 17, are required to wear full Highland regalia.

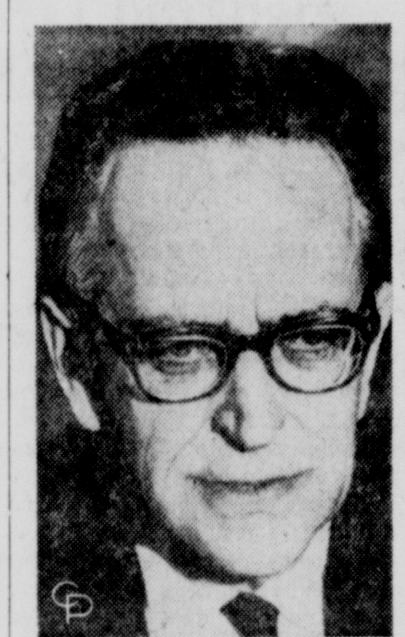

Two instructors from the mother college in Scotland give the boys and girls their daily lessons in Gaelic, which courses are compulsory for all 130 students.

Late in the summer season, during August, the students display their hard-won Highland skills during St. Ann's Gaelic Mod. Presided over by a visiting clan chieftain brought in from Scotland, St. Ann's Gaelic Mod also draws celebrities from nearby northern Maine, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, all of which have many people descended from the Scots. Celebrities come in, too, to add to the enthusiastic mobs of spectators.

A riot of color is the result. Products of the Highland home crafts branch of the college are available at the Gaelic College Craft Center, which is the Cape Breton home of authentic, handwoven clan tartans.

Ties, scarves, rugs, tams, skirts and glengarries are on sale in the official Cape Breton tartan of black, grey, green and gold as well as in more than 140 other clan tartans. Many

Ohio University Panel Eyes ROTC

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio University committee of students, faculty members and administrators rejected Friday a proposal to demote ROTC programs to off-campus activities.

The Curriculum Council did, however, recommend to President Claude Sowle that ROTC courses be taught only by academic faculty, that only the military commandant be granted faculty rank and that no university funds be used to support the military programs.

Oxygen Tank On Apollo 13 "Fated?"

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — An oxygen tank which exploded on Apollo 13 had a history of having been dropped, switched from Apollo 10 and of not meeting planned specifications, officials of North American Rockwell Corp. say.

The firm was the prime contractor for the service module, where the tank was installed, and the command module.

The officials said Thursday the tank satisfactorily passed 19 major tests during its three-year history and that none of the events in its past could be pinpointed as a cause of explosion.

The tank and another were removed from Apollo 10 for modification, adding heavier insulation wires powering a vacuum pump. To keep Apollo 10 on schedule, the tanks from Apollo 13's service module, which already had been modified, were installed in Apollo 10.

After modification, the tanks originally in Apollo 10 were installed in Apollo 13.

The modification was designed to prevent electrical interference to other systems.

The oxygen tanks were dropped in 1968 while the Apollo 13 spacecraft was being built, but individual tests indicate this probably did not affect the performance of the No. 2 tank.

Two years earlier, the tank failed to meet design specifications but was accepted.

The oxygen flow rate from the tank was .02 pounds per hour above the specifications.

North American and the space agency waived the specifications, however, since the oxygen flow was only about three per cent above normal.

Prior to launch of Apollo 13 workers experienced difficulty with a vent valve on tank No. 2. The valve was not evacuating the tank as rapidly as called for in the specifications, but it was within tolerance limits and was cleared for flight.

From Allied Mills: THE INNOVATORS

Disenchantment

Yale University president Kingman Brewster Jr. was quite right when he warned the press and the public not to be misled by what he called fewer instances of campus violence this year. The unrest is still there, he said, and could break out anew at any time.

Almost as he was speaking, new violence did erupt in California, in Kansas, in Pennsylvania and on campuses in between. But the Yale prexy is guilty of a misunderstanding of the phenomenon of campus riots by blaming it all on a "disenchantment" with American life among college students.

It is this "disenchantment" which made it possible for the students to attend college in the first place. It is this "disenchantment" which will provide the students, if they manage to survive four years of combat, the best opportunities in business or public service the world has ever seen.

It is this "disenchantment" which has caused some of them to rebel against a society they prefer not to understand, for a cause they cannot enunciate and in a manner which is reprehensible to any civilized people.

Not to be overlooked, in a large majority of cases, is that the "disenchantment" occurred after the student left their families and became part of the campus community.

"Disenchantment" wouldn't be a required course in those schools now under attack by rocks, fire bombs and assault on authority, would it?

New Approach

When research on the cause of a serious disease encounters difficulty in tracing the origin, what better approach is there than to try to find another approach, such as overcoming the effects of the disease whatever its cause?

This in effect is what the Syracuse Cancer Research Institute in Syracuse, N. Y., is doing in its quest for a breakthrough in cancer research.

Dr. Joseph Gold, director of the institute, has turned his attention to efforts to overcome the actual cause of death in a majority of cancer patients, which is cachexia, or the gradual loss of weight and debilitation.

"What happens," says Dr. Gold, "is that while this emaciation is going on in the body, an opposite process is also going on, the tumor is flourishing."

In laboratory tests on rats, Dr. Gold has found that reversing the emaciation process by introducing certain amino acids not only retarded the growth of tumors, but in some cases even caused regression.

This is a hopeful beginning in a new look at the challenge of cancer.

Sixpence Reprieve

Tradition inevitably has won an important round in Britain's slow but steady course toward the acceptance of decimal coinage next year. The sixpence will not be dropped along with the other denominations now in use after all.

Only after terrific popular pressure did the government decide to reprieve the sixpence. Perhaps it was impressed by a national poll which showed 73 percent of the populace was in favor of retaining the popular "tanner."

It will have an awkward value of 2.5 new pence under the decimal system, but to a people who have long endured coinage which is not easily divisible by one another, that is no serious matter. What is important is that the sixpence is the coin most popularly used for such everyday transactions as phone calls, subway tickets, vending machines and slot machines.

Coins, after all, were meant as a medium of exchange, a point perhaps overlooked in the drive toward conformity.

"Good idea," approved the fisherman. "Happen to know of any good-looking young widow with two or three kids?"

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street keeps getting swamped with new problems these days before it is able to rise above the old ones.

Perhaps never before has there been such a confluence of muddy issues spilling onto the desks of analysts, problems with which even the State Department foreign affairs specialists would have difficulty.

The threatened escalation of the war in Indochina is giving nightmares to analysts who based their hopes of a rising market on a reduction of hostilities in that area. Their theory in recent weeks has been this:

"War might have been good for industry in the past, but it surely isn't anymore. Look at those terrible profit statements. And see how war has brought inflation. A cool Southeast Asia would warm the stock market just enough."

Although one war is one war too many for analysts who understand balance sheets but not balances of power, these securities scholars are also being forced to keep an eye on the confused and potentially explosive Mideast.

Foreign affairs are very much a factor in this market, but analyses of foreign affairs by securities men lack credibility. Few investors are willing to buy stocks because of a military or political forecast by a securities analyst. And so they remain almost cataleptic.

Domestically speaking, it is also difficult to determine the thinking of those who guide the American economy. High interest rates were supposed to curtail heavy spending. But something has gone wrong with that theory.

Capital spending plans—the plans of business remodeling and expanding—were supposed to be falling off by now. Instead, business seems to be raising its intentions to spend.

That, at least, is the opinion of some private economists who have surveyed the field, and whose conclusions include a simple forecast of still higher interest rates and a prediction of a possible money panic.

Elliot Janeway, an author, economic consultant and financial adviser, has been warning for some time about the possible panic. He sees business and government locked in a battle to borrow from an insufficient supply of lendable funds. He suggests credit controls, and possibly a continued market dip.

The continued demand for money by corporations is explained partially by their need to modernize in order to make themselves more productive and thus offset the higher costs of inflation. But in so doing they contribute to inflationary pressures.

This isn't the only thing that confuses analysts trying to predict the future of the market. The entire Nixon program to half inflation is now being second-guessed. The administration maintains that results will begin to show soon; but impatient investors are uncertain. They're not in the mood to believe.

And then there is the big, big question that is highlighted by the demonstrations at annual meetings. Will the need to improve the environment be reflected in lower corporate profits? Who can answer with assurance?

It isn't only the solvency of other companies, or of the entire economy, that concerns many analysts today. Their own firms are in trouble, many of them anyway, and this fact contributes to a lack of investor confidence.

It seems reasonable to assume, for example, that a small investor who reads of mismanagement, paperwork problems and thefts in brokerage houses isn't going to be enthusiastic about turning over his money for investing.

ART FORM—Ernst Marti-Hunziker stands by his "wood pile" near Ammerzwil, Switzerland, contemplating what must be a new and different art form. There are five cords of wood in it, a 16-hour job. The Swiss flag is on top.

Any advertising writer who wrote that something was as American as blueberry pie would get a free blueberry pie—right in his face.

All television comedians who joke about their wives and mothers-in-law would have to buy them equal time on a national network so they could tell what a crumb he is.

Supermarket shopping carts would be equipped with rubber bumpers.

Every bottle at a cocktail party would self destruct five minutes after the party was supposed to be over.

Every person convicted of drunken driving would receive an automatic one-year jail sentence.

No man would be permitted to wear shoulder-length hair in public unless he concealed it under a crew-cut wig.

Anyone convicted of peddling narcotics would immediately have injected into his own person whatever drugs were found on him at the time of his arrest.

For sports fans who weary of the long baseball season, pro football teams would play two schedules—one in the spring and another in the fall.

All college faculty members would be free to join in a student picket line—but they'd lose their pay any day they did so.

Corporations which issue credit cards would have to print on the back of them this warning: "These cards are addictive and can lead to quick insolvency."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

At the Institute of Rehabilitation Medicine in New York City, a series of studies have been progressing aimed at the prevention of heart attacks, strokes and circulatory disorders. Dr. Menard M. Gertler has for years been studying, with great success, the possibility of predicting in young, healthy people the chances that they may eventually have a heart attack. Such a prediction is valid and scientific and is made only after the most elaborate studies that include the family history, a background of diabetes, kidney disease, arteriosclerosis, diet, obesity, use of tobacco, drugs, alcohol, the social environment, occupation and emotional stresses. This program is the continuation of that which Dr. Gertler published in conjunction with the famous heart authority, Dr. Paul Dudley White.

So successful has the program of prediction been for heart disease that it is now being applied to the study of strokes. A new, elaborate computer is now being fed information and within minutes Dr. Gertler and his colleagues can tell an individual's chances for a heart attack or a stroke if their suggestions for prevention are not followed.

Here, in essence, is the greatest value of this remarkable study. It is not the prediction above that is important but rather the medical advice that is given and followed by those who can then be headed off from a calamity.

During the past month I have answered a number of letters of young, married couples who are concerned about diseases that cropped up in their family backgrounds. A number of them wanted to know if they were running a severe risk of passing on to their children diabetes, mental retardation, cystic fibrosis and a variety of other hereditary conditions. All of them were obviously distressed, some with justification.

My direction to them was that they take advantage of the new science of genetic counseling and engineering that has enlarged so remarkably during the past ten years.

Now it is possible to seek such genetic guidance through their physicians who can, by telephone, call any one of the special centers set up for this purpose.

A newly created group of genetic counseling centers have been established by the National Foundation for Genetics and Neuro-Muscular Diseases, in New York City. Five centers are actively working and available to physicians everywhere. The centers differ slightly in special areas of interest but a specific problem can be directed to a proper source of information. Physicians know the central telephone number.

Why does driving an automobile call forth so much hostility and anger?

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In regards to Mr. Webb's letter to the editor, I would like to say a few things.

First, I am the editor of the 1971 annual. Just before the School Board's decision, the 1971 annual staff, the present Junior Class officers, Mrs. Crist and Mr. DeLong of the School Board held a meeting with Ned Schreiner of Schreiner's and Dixie Lee of Rembrandt's. Each was given time to show examples and give prices.

Then the staff and the officers were given the chance to express their opinions and voted unanimously to go with Rembrandt's. It was found that we were more impressed by Rembrandt's than by Schreiner's. Yes, there are some sentimental feelings for Rembrandt's, but that is not the real reason for our choice.

Rembrandt's has the quality that we want. This contract with the photographer not only involves senior pictures but some 300 pictures for the annual free of charge. Mr. Schreiner says that he has never done a yearbook before and this year he was going to try to do two. We, the representatives of the 1971 seniors are pleased with the choice of the School Board.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, May 2, the 122nd day of 1970. There are 243 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1863, Gen. Thomas Stonewall Jackson was mistaken for a Union scout, was shot and fatally wounded by his own Confederate soldiers at the battle of Chancellorsville in Virginia, during the Civil War.

On this date: In 1519, one of the world's greatest artists—Leonardo Da Vinci—died.

In 1785, Thomas Jefferson became the American minister to France.

In 1890, Oklahoma was organized as a territory.

In 1923, Lieutenants Oakley Kelly and John Macready left Roosevelt Field on Long Island on the first nonstop transcontinental airplane flight.

In 1945, hostilities ceased in Italy, and Moscow announced the fall of Berlin.

One year ago — Twenty-seven persons were poisoned, six fatally, at a meal following a Buddhist funeral near Buenos Aires.

MGM Auction

By BOB THOMAS

AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They start auctioning the dreams on Sunday and by May 20 all will be sold to the highest bidders.

Throughout this week crowds have been filing through the sound stages of MGM to gaze at the stuff that 45 years of dreams were made of: the costumes, props and miniatures used during the studio's history.

Want to buy the ruby slippers from "The Wizard of Oz"? Charles Laughton's cap in "Mystery on the Bounty"? Debbie Reynolds' bed in "The Unsinkable Molly Brown"?

If so, you can come to the Culver City lot during the next 24 weeks and join the bidding. There's liable to be a crowd.

Auctioneer David Weisz, who bought the goods outright for an undisclosed price, has tried to plan for it.

Three thousand seats will be provided on the huge stage 27, and more bidders can watch it on television nearby.

Six auctioneers will spell each other in offering a thousand items per day. Some 11,855 colored slides will be projected on a screen to illustrate the objects.

During the weeks before the auction, many a longtime MGM employee came to the studio for a look at the treasures.

"I worked here for 45 years," said one. "I never thought I'd see the day . . ."

Nor did anyone else in MGM's heyday. During the regime of Irving Thalberg and Louis B. Mayer, MGM was unquestionably the Tiffany's of the movie business. It's easy to lament those days, especially after a visit to the MGM collection.

What a wonderland of memories. The star costumes draw the greatest interest, because they captured most vividly the well-remembered films.

The artifacts are enough to orbit an interior decorator. Some are junk, but hundreds of items are rare mementoes.

Dreams, dreams. They have been hauled out of 50 store-rooms scattered over the three big lots that comprised MGM.

Everything goes but the cameras and sets. Next, the real estate.

What the new management of MGM is doing is saddening yet realistic. The proceeds from the costumes and props will purchase time to get the company's affairs in order and attempt a solution of its financial ills—$35 million loss in fiscal 1969.

Choosing Between Loyalty And Truth

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, you published something regarding the difference between being a "tattletale" or "stoolee" and a person who is not afraid to provide information regarding violation of the law, etc.

This very issue is facing many of our young people today as they see their friends involved in illegal activities. They are torn between their "loyalty" to the friends, and their responsibility as a good citizen.

Your statement in this regard is the best analysis of the problem I have ever seen. I have saved it and herewith enclose same. You would be doing all of us a favor if you would print it again. Thank you.

J.G. JOHNSON
Assistant County Attorney
Oelwein, Ia

DEAR J.G.: Here it is, originally published three years ago, but still timely.

DEAR ABBY: I am going to write this quickly and mail it, so I won't have a chance to reconsider and close my eyes to a wrong.

My son recently told me about some youngsters in our neighborhood who steal bikes, remove the parts, rebuild and sell both rebuilt bikes and extra parts. I ask him how these youngsters managed to get away with it without their parents knowing about it, and he says the kids tell their parents that the bike belongs to another boy, and they bought the spare parts with their allowances.

I am appalled at the whole thing. I can't expect my boy to reveal the names of these boys, and my husband would think it unseemly if I were to bring this to the attention of

Work Incentive Results Given

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's participation in the Work Incentive Program has produced employment for 1,741 persons who previously had subsisted on welfare payments, according to Administrator Willard Dudley of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services.

Dudley said the program, in which 20 counties are taking part, has reduced monthly welfare payments across the state by $264,611.

the authorities. You are the only way I have of warning parents who unknowingly may be allowing their children to continue this practice.

I do not condone my own child's acceptance of this behavior and have asked him to avoid this group of friends until they, too, become aware of their unacceptable behavior and stop it.

CONCERNED
DEAR CONCERNED: A boy who is old enough to "rebuild" a bike is old enough to know he is breaking the law. While your son may not be guilty of stealing, he is guilty of another "crime." (Knowing of theft and keeping quiet.) I do not approve of friends informing on one another but a real "friend" would do all in his power to set his companions straight.

I hope the parents of the guilty boys see this, and check out the stories their sons tell about "buying" spare parts, and repairing another boy's bike. And if they discover that their sons have stolen bikes, they should insist they are returned to their rightful owners. Otherwise they should report their own sons to the authorities. Stealing is stealing. And the successful petty thief goes on to bigger things.

DEAR ABBY: To the reader who was always speechless when her friend would give her a gift and remark that she wished she could have kept it for herself. Try quoting this little poem next time:

I love the Christmas time, and yet,
I notice this. Each year I live;

I always love the gifts I get
But how I love the gifts I give!

This could apply to any time of year. And isn't it the truth! So many times we choose for gifts those which we would love to have ourselves.

Indians Mortgage Land To Buy Heritage

By RICK COOK
Associated Press Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Members of two Arizona Indian tribes have mortgaged their land for money to buy back part of their heritage.

Representatives of the Colorado River Indian tribes came to Phoenix from their reservation on the lower Colorado River Thursday to bid on Mohave beadwork and pottery and Chemehuevi baskets which are being auctioned off to settle an estate.

The articles were gathered by the late Birdie H. Brown, a pioneer and operator of a store in Parker, Ariz.

"We have up to $50,000 to spend," said the Colorado River tribal chairman, Adrian Fisher. "We put up some of our best land to borrow the money."

They will be bidding against dealers and collectors who are willing to pay as much as $200 each for the 500 pieces the tribes are interested in.

Fisher said the artifacts are irreplaceable and there is nothing like them left on the reservation. He said only one old Chemehuevi woman is left who can still make baskets.

"She makes about two a year," Fisher said. "But it's hard to get materials. The Colorado River reclamation projects have ruined the riverbanks where the women gathered willows at this time of year."

Said Dorothy Hall, bidder for the Indians:

"We had some of the old women who used to make baskets come up and examine the collection. They went home Thursday afternoon because they couldn't bear to see them auctioned off."

Agnes Savilla, a Chemehuevi woman, recalled Mrs. Brown's store used to be a stopoff for Indians going to visit their children at the boarding school there.

"We couldn't go home, but our parents could come visit us on Saturdays," she said. "They didn't like to come empty-handed, so they'd stop by the Browns' store and trade for candy or oranges to take to the children."

"My mother traded a beaded cape for about eight dollars worth of things," she finished sadly.

Mrs. Savilla said the baskets never had been made for sale, but for use in this world and the next.

"It would never do to bury a Chemehuevi without a basket," she added.

Fisher said any artifacts the tribes obtained would be housed in the tribal museum which would be open to researchers. "We ourselves could extract

Nixon Visits Pentagon War Room

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon went to the Pentagon Friday for an up-to-the-minute briefing on the new Cambodian operation and emerged saying: "I know I did what I believe was right."

The chief executive, accompanied by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, gave no assessment on the new offensive in Cambodia reporting only that he had received a "very good briefing."

Nixon said it was "just the beginning" of a Cambodian campaign which could last several weeks.

The President was asked by reporters whether he thinks the American public backs his decision to enter Cambodia, a move highly criticized by some members of Congress.

"I know I did what I believe was right."

What really matters, the President said, "is if it turns out all right."

When he arrived at the Pentagon about 8:45 a.m., Nixon praised Americans fighting in Vietnam in contrast to students demonstrating on U.S. campuses.

"I've seen them out there," Nixon said. "There are bombs exploding... I am sure they're scared. I know I was."

By contrast, he said, "you see these bums blowing up campuses."

The President was briefed at the Pentagon's top secret National Military Command Center which receives up to the minute information on military activities anywhere in the world.

detailed ethnographic information that only the Chemehuevi and Mohave women have in mind," Fisher said. "Once they are gone, the artifacts can never er again elicit this kind of valuable recollection and detailed description."

One of the old women who had been looking over the collection shook her head. "They won't never make no baskets, these young girls," she said. "But they could look and see and know what we did."

Monday Club Entertains With Program On Thailand

Monday Club held its annual Guest Night April 27 at the Pickaway County Historical Society. Professor Ruth M. Erlandson, who is consultant for library research at Ohio State University, was the speaker for the evening. Miss Erlandson was library adviser under the Asia Foundation 1956-58 at Chulalongkorn University, Bangkok, Thailand, and spent the summer of 1965 at Chiangmai University, Chiangmai, Thailand. Since 1966 she has been adviser to the Thai students at Ohio State University.

Miss Erlandson brought three of the students with her. Mrs. Upson Keowsudthi, a Fulbright scholar graduate student in architectural design, OSU; Miss Siriporn Manasabhot, a senior at Whetstone High School, Columbus, under American Field Service and Channarong Chantavanarangkoon, graduate student in civil engineering, OSU, sent by Thailand State Highway Department.

Using the slides she had made while living in Thailand, Miss Erlandson in an informal talk and with the help of the students, gave an interesting picture of the way of life in that country.

The people there live in houses which are typical of the tropics, built high with a roof of braided leaves and no glass windows. Many of them live in house boats. Rice is the main food.

She said the language is very difficult to learn and it is almost impossible for an American to carry on a conversation in it. There are six tones for each word and each tone gives the word a new meaning. The alphabet has many symbols and very difficult to learn. However, the little children in Thailand learn to read it from a chart. Miss Manasabhot recited this as the children do.

The temples and palaces are very ornate with lavish use of gold. When a new building is dedicated, there are two ceremonies, a religious one by the priests in the morning, a luncheon and gifts for the priests at noon and a civil ceremony in the afternoon.

The soccer game for the King's Cup is the outstanding athletic event of the year. Before the game, there are two hours of marching by students.

Thailand now has two churches — the Church of Christ in Thailand and Catholic Church of Thailand. The churches have two services, in the morning in Thai and in the afternoon in English. There are several important Christian schools and a Catholic student center in Chiangmai. Students dress mostly in western clothes except when participating in the Temple rites. Then they wear their formal Thai dress.

Thai classical dances are based on the stones from the Ramakien. They use beautiful costumes and sets with music by Piphat Band, offstage with singers off-stage taking various parts. In the Thai version of the Ramayona by Valmiki Sita, the wife of Rama is abducted by the king of the demons who has ten heads. Hanuman, the white monkey general, fought for Rama. He is a comical character with supernatural powers and much loved by the Thai people, especially the children. Miss Erlandson showed some scenes of this dance which was given in a pavilion built in the middle of a lagoon.

Miss Manasabhot danced a typical Thai folk dance. She showed how the hands were used in the dance and how important they were to the dance. Another dance often seen in Thailand is called the Finger Nail Dance. The dancers use long brass finger nails for it.

Besides her beautiful pictures, Miss Erlandson displayed artifacts and other articles she had collected in Thailand.

Earth Day Observances Held At TV

By RETHA GLOYD

The physical science and government classes participated in an anti-pollution campaign symbolizing "Earth Day" April 22.

People were urged to ride bikes to school to call attention to the fact that the automobile is a major polluter. Of course, the students realize that riding a bike one day a year will not affect the over-all pollution situation.

Attempting to increase the environmental awareness of the student body as a whole, the following students participated in an assembly program — Brenda Bidwell, Wayne Brown, Janice Cathey, Mike Cline, Barb Edwards, Sue Fisher, Debbie Flowers, Neil Fosnaugh, Retha Gloyd, Jon Hancock, Dan Hicks, Edna Holland, Rusty Jacob, Steve Logsdon, Ed McCord, Cathy Moody, Dave Parmenter, Kathy Penn, Brenda Pobst, Jim Ramey, Donna Reed, Angie Roese, Eddie Rumer, Gale Sawyer, Mike Schebeck, Lorraine Sowers, Deb Stir, Bob Straight, Mike Struckman, Ralph Willoughby, and Ray Yeager.

Poems, songs, and slogans were written by the students. An environmental flier was also circulated through the school. Miss Nelle Oesterle and Mrs. Edith Anderson directed the program, which was well received.

Asian Reaction Mixed Over U.S. Move Into Cambodia

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China and North Vietnam accused President Nixon Friday of expanding the Vietnam war to all Indochina. The Japanese government called the American march in to Cambodia "unavoidable," the South Korean government approved it, and Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik expressed regret.

Peking and Hanoi reacted quickly to Nixon's announcement Thursday night that he was sending U.S. combat troops into Cambodia for the first time.

A Chinese broadcast said "the Nixon administration's criminal scheme" proves that "the U.S. imperialists are the most vicious enemy of the Indochinese people" and means that the United States "is expanding its aggressive war in Vietnam and Laos" throughout the Indochinese peninsula.

Hanoi Radio said Nixon's announcement was an "insolent declaration of his dark and vile intention of expanding the war to all of Indochina."

Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato and Foreign Minister Kiichi Aichi agreed that American intervention in Cambodia was "an unavoidable step." Aichi said he would send an envoy to Cambodia for an on-the-spot report.

South Korean Foreign Minister Choi Kyu-hah said his government welcomes Nixon's decision, "not only to contribute to the security of the allied forces in Vietnam" but also will help protect South Vietnam and Cambodia from "Communist aggression," Choi said.

But Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik said the American march across the border "will not help speed up finding a solution to the crisis in Cambodia" and will jeopardize the Asian and Pacific conference he is arranging to seek peace in Cambodia.

Indonesian officials said the conference probably will be postponed until May 16 because of requests for a short delay from Japan, Malaysia, Australia and New Zealand. It had been planned for May 11-12.

Laotian Premier Souvanna Phouma called the President's decision "an act of courage in politics," saying Nixon "prefers to sacrifice his chance for a second term in the White House than to sacrifice the lives of thousands of brave American men fighting for freedom in South Vietnam." But he said it is too early to tell how the decision will affect Laos.

OXYGEN OPERATION—The "surgeons" are NASA engineers and the "operation" is being performed on an oxygen tank like the one that blew up on the Apollo 13 near the Moon. The scene is at the Beechcraft plant in Boulder, Colo., where the nefarious oxygen tank was made. The engineers are watching the making of another to see if they can detect what might have gone wrong on Apollo 13.

War Foes Lambast Nixon; GOP Fears Election Losses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Long-time Republican supporters of American involvement in Vietnam, fearing political disaster for the GOP, have joined Democratic war foes in criticizing President Nixon's decision to send U.S. ground troops into Cambodia.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, center of opposition to U.S. policies in Southeast Asia, scheduled another meeting today to discuss how to cope with the situation after its failure to prevent the move into Cambodia.

Although Nixon's speech drew some bipartisan support, the overwhelming tone Thursday night was critical—especially at a Capitol briefing at which Undersecretary of State Elliott Richardson and Deputy Secretary of Defense David R. Packard told senators of Nixon's decision.

While Nixon said he was putting aside political considerations to take steps to prevent an American defeat, Republicans who held high hopes of picking up the seven seats needed to control the Senate were clearly stunned by the President's speech.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., a strong Nixon man who just hours before the President's speech had defended the administration's support of South Vietnamese operations into Cambodia, said he was troubled by the commitment of American troops.

"There is no doubt in my mind the public reaction is going to be adverse," Dole told reporters. "I just can't see anything but an increase in wounded, killed, and this will cause a sharp downturn in support of the President's policies."

Likewise, Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., a member of the Armed Services Committee who had declared support of earlier operations into Cambodia by South Vietnamese troops, said he thought "it's going to be very hard to get" support for Nixon's dispatch of ground troops.

While the attack ordered by the President is "probably correct" from a military standpoint, he said, "The question of what he is going to do from a political point of view to get American support is very, very doubtful."

Dominick spoke on Metromedia Radio News.

However, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who earlier in the day told Seattle, Wash., University students he opposes use of U.S. ground troops in Cambodia, said after the speech Nixon's decision could be "a turning point." But, the 1964 GOP presidential candidate added, he would have gone "much further than the President did."

"I would give them 15 days to make peace or make Haiphong harbor a mud puddle," Goldwater said in Lacey, Wash.

Key lawmakers backing Nixon included Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee; Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania; Assistant GOP Leader Robert P. Griffin of Michigan and House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan.

Nixon Wants Government To Stay Off Campuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is making headway in his quiet campaign to keep the federal government out of campus affairs while his vice president is making headlines by calling for a crackdown on student demonstrators.

The President, despite continuing campus unrest, is sticking by his frequently stated position that it is a problem for the colleges to solve, not the government.

Nixon gained a valuable ally Thursday when Minnesota Rep. Albert H. Quie, probably the most influential House Republican on education matters, endorsed the White House's hands-off policy.

Although Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is not proposing federal action, his widely publicized attacks on student agitators and college presidents he says fail to stand up against militants and their supporters as a government attempt to influence campus policy.

"When the vice president of the United States calls for the ouster of the presidents of two major universities," said Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., "that is a form of intervention by the federal government in the conduct of a university that is tantamount to an attempt at federal control."

"Moreover," he added, "the vice president's statements are certainly not in keeping with the clear and, I believe, laudatory stand of the President."

Nixon's stand also was strongly endorsed Thursday by Robert F. Goheen, president of Princeton University, at a hearing before the House education subcommittee.

It was during the hearing when Quie dropped his little bombshell on Chairman Edith Green, D-Ore., his ally last year in an effort to require colleges, under penalty of losing federal aid, to adopt a code of student conduct and fix penalties for violations.

"I've come to the conclusion now that we ought to keep hands off," said Quie. "We've gone about as far as we can and any further action would be counterproductive."

Reject Report On Sen. Long, Bribery Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal prosecutor's recommendation that Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., be indicted on bribery charges in connection with a federal contract has been rejected by the Justice Department, the Washington Post reported today.

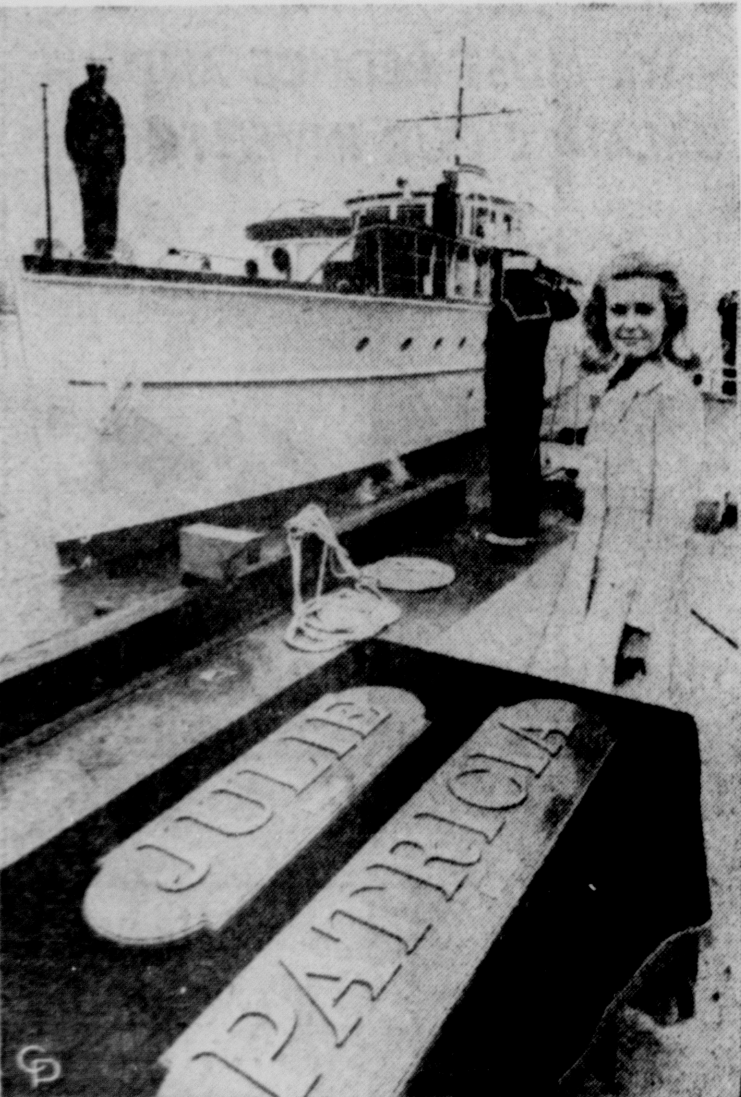

The newspaper said government lawyers apparently decided Long was not connected to any illegal acts on the basis of evidence gathered in a federal probe in Baltimore concerning the contract for a garage under a House of Representatives office building.

The Justice Department withheld immediate comment.

Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, has denied any wrongdoing in connection with the contract and a pending claim by the prime contractor, Victor J. Frenkil of Baltimore, for about $5 million in extra payment.

Hospital Gets Grant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Appalachian Regional Commission in Washington has awarded a $136,409 grant to the Oak Hill Hospital in Jackson County, Gov. James A. Rhodes announced Friday. The money will be used to renovate a section of the facility.

SHE'S DEACTIVATED—Tricia Nixon stands on the deck in Washington as the presidential yacht "Patricia" backs away, headed for deactivation along with the "Julie," which is in Florida waters. They are up for sale "in the interests of economy," says the White House.

U.S. Steel Hikes Prices

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Co., which with U.S. Steel normally sets the steel industry's pricing trends, has announced a 4.7 per cent increase on big tonnage items used to make cars and many household appliances.

The announcement by the nation's second largest steelmaker Thursday afternoon drew no immediate reaction from the rest of the industry.

At the Pittsburgh headquarters of U.S. Steel, the industry giant, a spokesman said the Bethlehem move was being studied. A spokesman for Inland Steel in Chicago said officials would "study the competitive situation and see what the market will bear."

The Bethlehem increases cover hot rolled and cold rolled sheets—the basic products used by the automotive and appliance industries—and hot dipped galvanized sheets. The three lines account for about 35 per cent of the nation's steel shipments.

No Merger Talks Set By ABA, NBA

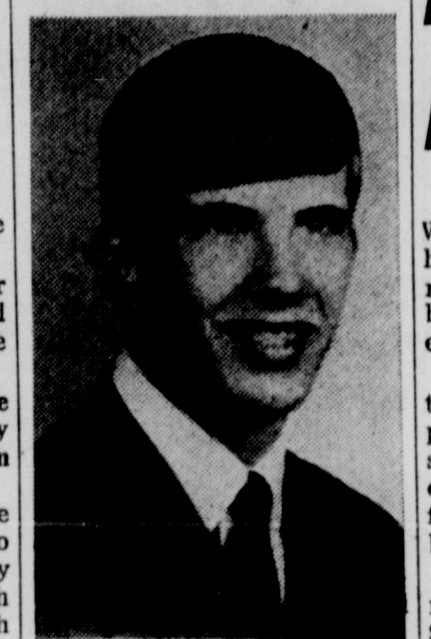

NEW YORK (AP) — The National and American basketball associations indicated agreement Friday to stay any merger or merger talks, pending a ruling on their case in Congress.

Lawyers for the two rival pro-leagues agreed to a preliminary injunction sought by NBA players that would prohibit a merger, thus continuing the struggle for players between the leagues.

Federal Judge Charles H. Tenney indicated he would grant the preliminary injunction Monday, asking lawyers for the leagues and the players to work together on the language of the order. The judge also extended a previous restraining order against merger talks until Wednesday.

Capital Gets Westfall Ace Greg Bigam

Westfall's "Mr. Everything," Greg Bigam, has cast his lot with Capital University, Columbus.

GREG BIGAM

Bigam has accepted an athletic scholarship and will be on the Columbus campus this fall.

An all-around athlete nonpareil he will devote his abilities to basketball and baseball.

Gaining all sorts of recognition for his basketball skill Bigam was selected to Scioto Valley Conference, Central District aggregations, All-Ohio honors and capped it off being named to the All-American High School honorable mention list.

ONE of the mainstays of the Mustangs baseball squad has proved his worth on the mound and at the plate.

Although he is passing up football, Bigam would be a worthwhile addition to the grid team. He was a standout quarterback for the Westfall eleven and a team leader. He also gained conference and state recognition on the gridiron.

When asked about passing up football, he replied, "Two sports will take up most of my time and as much as I love football I will have to give it up."

"My main objective is to get a good education and some sacrifices will have to be made."

In addition to his sports proficiency Bigam is always a team player and gives 110 per cent at all times.

A member of the National Honor Society throughout his high school days he is well equipped to face the college halls of learning.

A LEADER in the classrooms as well as the athletic fields he is respected by fellow students and faculty members alike.

Bigam had been sought by several colleges but finally decided Capital is the place to further his education and sports dexterity.

Capital certainly didn't make any mistake when it decided to cast its fortunes with Mr. Greg Bigam.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bigam, Route 1, Williamsport.

Oscar Robertson Joins Milwaukee And Alcindor

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The chance to play on a championship team and with an outstanding big center were the main factors in Oscar Robertson's signing with the Milwaukee Bucks, the veteran National Basketball Association superstar said Friday.

"I thought this would be an opportunity I had wanted since the beginning of my career," the former Cincinnati Royals guard said.

The Bucks unveiled Robertson to Milwaukee at a news conference, and the 10-year NBA veteran captivated his audience as easily with words as he does with his ball handling and shooting.

Articulate—sometimes blunt—the "Big O" scored time and again as he fielded questions flawlessly, passing off sharply to Bucks Coach Larry Costello when asked how he would fit in with Milwaukee's other superstar, 7-foot-2 Lew Alcindor.

They're just wild about Clete Boyer in Atlanta — Morganna, an exotic dancer; Phil Niekro, an ecstatic pitcher, and a 17-year-old high school girl who had no qualms about puckering up with $40 on the line.

Boyer got his annual kiss in the fourth inning of the Braves' 3-2 triumph over the Chicago

Cubs Friday night but it didn't have the same effect as last year's smooch by Morganna. That time, Boyer followed with a double. This time, his next at-bat resulted in a liner to left.

"She said she wanted to kiss me," Boyer explained, "and I said to let me take my chewing tobacco out first. She was better looking than Morganna. She may not have been built better, but she was better looking. She was cute. That's why I had to get the tobacco out."

Niekro didn't kiss Boyer but he probably wanted to after the slickfielding third baseman came up with two defensive gems, starting a double play in the eighth and going far to his left to throw out Ron Santo in the ninth.

"He has saved me two games already," said Niekro, who has won only two. "I like to see a ground ball hit his way. You just can't find a better man to play third, I don't care where you look."

The Braves touched loser Joe Decker for two runs in the first inning on Hank Aaron's ninth homer and Felix Millan's RBI double. They got what proved to be the winning run in the fifth on Sonny Jackson's single, Decker's pickoff throwing error and a sacrifice fly by Tony Gonzalez. Niekro yielded solo homers to Decker and Billy Williams.

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati tripped Pittsburgh 6-4, the New York Mets nipped San Diego 2-1, San Francisco beat Philadelphia 3-1, Houston whipped St. Louis 9-3 and Montreal defeated Los Angeles 3-1.

Johnny Bench cracked a three-run homer as the Reds piled up a 6-0 lead and then survived a grand slam homer by Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell.

Donn Clendenon drilled a two-run single and Tom Seaver hurled a four-hitter for his 15th consecutive regular season victory as the Mets shaded San Diego. Steve Hunt homered for the Padres' run.

Rich Robertson's two-bitter and Bobby Bonds' two-run homer boosted the Giants past Philadelphia. Denny Doyle's two-out double in the fifth and Deron Johnson's two-out single in the eighth were the only hits off the right-hander.

Jesus Alou drove in three runs with a double and set up two others with another two-bagger as the Astros snapped an eight-game losing streak against the Cards. Houston's Joe Pepitone and Lou Brock of St. Louis hit solo homers.

The victory was only the second on the road this season for the Astros. They had lost 10 straight away from home since defeating Giants on opening day. Ironically, both Candlestick Park in San Francisco and Busch Stadium in St. Louis have artificial turf—just like the Astrodome.

Carl Morton, a one-time outfielder, baffled the Dodgers on three hits as the Expos rode Mack Jones' two-run double to their victory.

Reds Top Pirates For 6-4 Victory

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Wayne Granger gazed in from his left field position while rookie Don Gullett fanned Pittsburgh slugger Willie Stargell to end the game.

"It's strange looking in from the outfield," Granger, relief pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds, said after their 6-4 victory Friday night. "It's about 40 feet from the spot I'm supposed to be—the bullpen."

Stargell represented the tying run, but Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson's strategy worked as the Reds held on for the victory.

Stargell, a lefthanded hitter who entered the game batting .094, had rapped two singles and a grand slam home run before stepping to the plate in the ninth.

After Matty Alou led off the ninth with a single, Granger spelled Clay Carroll who had relieved Wayne Simpson in the seventh when Stargell hit the grand slam.

Granger forced Richy Hebner into a double play and yielded a single to Roberto Clemente, and then Gullett, a lefty, came on to pitch to Stargell. Granger was moved to left.

Anderson said he pulled a similar move when he was managing a minor league team.

What would Granger have done if the ball had been hit to him?

"I would have caught it," he said. "I'm a good outfielder. I should be because I shag the ball enough in practice."

Gullett, 19, who pitched in only 11 games in the low minors, said he was not nervous at all despite the situation.

"I was sent in to do the job, and I did it the best I could," he said.

The Reds had opened a six-run lead after six innings with three of the runs coming in the fourth on John Bench's sixth homer of the year. Bench entered the game with a .244 average but he has been hitting in the clutch. He wound up the evening with three hits in three at bats to hike his average to .269.

"If we can keep this pace we'll win it," Bench said, referring to the Reds.

Mustangs Top Adena, 6-3, In SVC Fray

Combining a 10-hit attack and six hit pitching by Greg Bigam the Mustangs of Westfall downed Adena, 6-3, on the latter's diamond.

Bigam went all the way for the Mustangs scattering six hits, fanning five and didn't issue a free pass.

John Valone, John Riddle and Bigam led the Mustang barrage with two singles apiece.

Doug McKay and Randy Alkire added doubles and Larry Harris and Joe Clem each contributed a single to the Mustang cause.

JONES Started for Adena and was relieved by Cox in the fifth. Adena jumped in front with a run in the first but Mike Sines scored on Riddle's hit in the second to knot the count.

The Warriors picked up two more runs in the fourth to again take the lead.

Hits by Riddle, Valone and Alkire combined with an error gave the Mustangs three runs in the fifth and they were out in front to stay.

They added two insurance markers in the sixth but they were not needed as the Warriors failed to tally again.

Westfall will host Paint Valley on Monday.

ring to the West Division championship.

The victory gives Cincinnati a 17-6 mark and helps it maintain a sizable lead in the division.

The victory also snaps a hex the Pirates have had over the Reds. Pittsburgh won the last six games the two clubs played last year and then won all four exhibition meetings this season.

Tribe Beats Kansas City; Wins 7-5

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Cleveland Indians came from behind with four runs in the eighth inning Friday night to snatch a 7-5 victory from the Kansas City Royals.

The key blow of the game-winning rally was a two-run double by pinch-hitter Chuck Hinton.

The loss was the eighth in nine games for the Royals.

Lou Pinella's three-run homer off Dean Chance in the first inning put the Royals in front and they remained there until the eighth.

Larry Brown opened the eighth with a pinch single and then Duke Sims drew a walk as a pinch-hitter for Vern Fuller. Steve Hargan ran for Sims and Ted Uhlaender's double off reliever Moe Drabowsky scored Brown and sent Hargan to third. Hinton then unloaded his double as the batter for pitcher Phil Hennigan, scoring Hargan and Uhlaender. Hinton scored the final run on a triple by Vada Pinson.

Amos Otis collected a double and four straight singles in Kansas City's 15-hit attack.

Norfolk State Wins Qualifying Heat

QUANTICO, VA. (AP) — Norfolk State track coach Dick Price was taking no chances a second time after one bad experience in the 14th annual Quantico Relays.

After his speedy Spartans had won their qualifying heat in the 880-yard club and service relay in 1:25.1, he hand-delivered the results to the press box, and who could blame him?

A Norfolk State quartet earlier had set one of three meet records on Friday's opening day program with a 40.9-second clocking in the 440-yard relay—but the results of the heat were lost and it was two hours before anybody found out about it.

Lakers Turn Back Knicks 121-115 In NBA Playoffs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Coach Red Holzman of the New York Knickerbockers declared, "I didn't notice anything wrong with Jerry West's hand out there."

There had been fears that a jammed left thumb might keep the Los Angeles Lakers ace out of the fourth game of the National Basketball Association championship playoffs on Friday night.

All West did was play 52 minutes out of a possible 53 as the Lakers won 121-115 in overtime. He scored 37 points and contributed 18 assists, which is just one short of the final playoff record of 19 held by former Boston Celtic star Bob Cousy.

As the pair of evenly matched teams head back to New York and Monday's fifth game at Madison Square Garden, the best four-of-seven series stands at two apiece. The last two have gone to overtime—the Knicks winning 111-108 on Wednesday night.

A crowd of 17,509 at the Forum saw the regulation period end 99-99 thanks in part to a great defensive play by reserve John Tresvant. He came on with 56 seconds remaining and, with nine seconds to go, knocked away an inbound ball aimed for Willis Reed.

Holzman said he felt his team played well in spots "but we missed too many fast-break opportunities."

"There really is little, if any, difference between these two teams," Holzman added.

Tresvant hadn't seen action in any of the previous three games against the Knicks although his play in the fifth game of the opening playoff series.

Circleville's golf team members were poor hosts Friday when they took the measure of Columbus North, 8-3, on the Pickaway Country Club links.

Mike Vaughan fired a 38 to take medalist honors and beat Saslaw, 43.

Greg Heiskell also had a hot hand with a 41 to gain one point from Beetham, 42, of North.

Mark Frericks tore into the course and finished with a 40 to win his match with Burkholder, 47.

Dave Haradon, 50, lost to North's Sbrocky, 47.

Dave Griggs, 42, won his match with Jones, 55, of Columbus North.

Circleville had a team total of 216 while North put 229 strokes on the board.

The Tigers will be at Lancaster Monday.

Dayton Roosevelt Leads Rider Relays

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Dayton Roosevelt held a four-point lead over Toledo Maumee entering the final day today of the George L. Rider Relays here.

Seventeen final events were slated. Only two final events were held Friday in the first-day of the 36th annual running of the relays formerly known as the Miami University High School Relays.

Jeff Parks of Dayton Roosevelt, the defending team champion, won the triple jump with a distance of 45 feet 7, inches.

In the final National League playoff game between the Atlanta Braves and New York Mets, Tommy Agee and Wayne Garrett of the Mets hit home runs on first pitches. Met Ken Boswell hit his homer on a 2-2 pitch.

Dissident Mail Carriers Lashed For Strike Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Association of Letter Carriers has lashed out at a dissident group of mail carriers for threatening the nation's second mail strike if their pay demands are not met within two weeks.

He said no one present voted against the strike call but added 24 delegates straddled the fence by voting present. Apparently one delegate did not respond to the vote.

A spokesman for Johnson said the carriers who voted for the strike included representatives from New York, New Jersey, Ohio, California, Illinois, Iowa, New Hampshire, Kentucky, Virginia, and other states.

The House Post Office Committee has completed consideration of the 8 per cent package proposal and is expected to put it in legislative form next week. The Senate committee is not that far along, but Sullivan said he did not anticipate any great difficulty in getting workable legislation from Congress.

Charge Green Beret Captain With Slaying Of His Family

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — A Green Beret captain who blamed the murder of his pregnant wife and two young daughters on hippie-like intruders has himself been charged with the crime.

Capt. Jeffrey R. MacDonald, 26, of Patchogue, N.Y., a doctor of preventive medicine at Ft. Bragg, was formally charged by Army investigators Friday with premeditated murder of his family.

MacDonald earlier had told the investigators the fatal stabbings occurred when three men and a blonde woman in hippie-type garb entered his home in the predawn hours of Feb. 17. He also was stabbed. MacDonald said he heard the woman say, "Acid is groovy, kill the pigs," before he passed out under their blows.

The Army, in a terse statement, said murder charges against him would be referred to an investigating officer who would review the evidence to determine whether a court-martial was warranted.

An Army spokesman said the procedure was comparable to a preliminary hearing in civilian courts. He said the investigating officer would decide on a recommendation and forward his decision to MacDonald's commanders, who have the final authority to convene a court-martial.

The doctor called a telephone operator the night of the killings and asked that police and an ambulance rush to his on-base apartment.

Military policemen found the bodies of Colette MacDonald, 26, and those of the couple's two children, Kimberly, 6, and Kristen Jean, 2.

The officers said they saw the word "Pig" written in blood on the headboard of the young couple's bed. The two girls were found dead in their separate bedrooms.

MacDonald was found on the bedroom floor beside his slain wife. He had stab wounds that included a punctured lung.

MacDonald was described by one of his lawyers as "utterly bewildered" by the charges.

"He's just beginning to realize they're serious about this," said Bernard L. Segal, one of two Philadelphia attorneys retained by MacDonald's mother to defend him. She retained them after the Army announced seven weeks after the slayings, that the captain was being held for questioning in the case, had been restricted to the base, and had been relieved of duties.
